

Daniel of Georgia, Hawkins of Pennsylvania and Montague of Virginia.

A CONVENTION INCIDENT.

Woman from a Small Town Fell Into the Hands of Friends.

Probably a large convention was never held in a city without being marred by unpleasant incidents.

A woman from one of Indiana's smaller towns came to this city Tuesday night to spend a few days mingling pleasantly with her sister Rebekah.

The woman started forth, however, to find the place as best she could.

She was met by a group of friends who directed her to the hotel where she was to stay.

She was met by a group of friends who directed her to the hotel where she was to stay.

She was met by a group of friends who directed her to the hotel where she was to stay.

She was met by a group of friends who directed her to the hotel where she was to stay.

She was met by a group of friends who directed her to the hotel where she was to stay.

She was met by a group of friends who directed her to the hotel where she was to stay.

She was met by a group of friends who directed her to the hotel where she was to stay.

She was met by a group of friends who directed her to the hotel where she was to stay.

She was met by a group of friends who directed her to the hotel where she was to stay.

She was met by a group of friends who directed her to the hotel where she was to stay.

She was met by a group of friends who directed her to the hotel where she was to stay.

She was met by a group of friends who directed her to the hotel where she was to stay.

She was met by a group of friends who directed her to the hotel where she was to stay.

She was met by a group of friends who directed her to the hotel where she was to stay.

She was met by a group of friends who directed her to the hotel where she was to stay.

She was met by a group of friends who directed her to the hotel where she was to stay.

She was met by a group of friends who directed her to the hotel where she was to stay.

She was met by a group of friends who directed her to the hotel where she was to stay.

She was met by a group of friends who directed her to the hotel where she was to stay.

She was met by a group of friends who directed her to the hotel where she was to stay.

She was met by a group of friends who directed her to the hotel where she was to stay.

She was met by a group of friends who directed her to the hotel where she was to stay.

She was met by a group of friends who directed her to the hotel where she was to stay.

She was met by a group of friends who directed her to the hotel where she was to stay.

She was met by a group of friends who directed her to the hotel where she was to stay.

Hon. Newton W. Gilbert, lieutenant governor, on behalf of the State of Indiana, and by Hon. John W. Kern, acting on behalf of his Honor, the mayor of Indianapolis, on behalf of the city.

Grand Representative Robert E. Wright, of Allen, Pa., is said to be one of the wealthiest members of the Sovereign Grand Lodge.

There seems to be a fascination about attending meetings of the Sovereign Grand Lodge that is irresistible.

There seems to be a fascination about attending meetings of the Sovereign Grand Lodge that is irresistible.

There seems to be a fascination about attending meetings of the Sovereign Grand Lodge that is irresistible.

There seems to be a fascination about attending meetings of the Sovereign Grand Lodge that is irresistible.

There seems to be a fascination about attending meetings of the Sovereign Grand Lodge that is irresistible.

There seems to be a fascination about attending meetings of the Sovereign Grand Lodge that is irresistible.

There seems to be a fascination about attending meetings of the Sovereign Grand Lodge that is irresistible.

There seems to be a fascination about attending meetings of the Sovereign Grand Lodge that is irresistible.

There seems to be a fascination about attending meetings of the Sovereign Grand Lodge that is irresistible.

There seems to be a fascination about attending meetings of the Sovereign Grand Lodge that is irresistible.

There seems to be a fascination about attending meetings of the Sovereign Grand Lodge that is irresistible.

There seems to be a fascination about attending meetings of the Sovereign Grand Lodge that is irresistible.

There seems to be a fascination about attending meetings of the Sovereign Grand Lodge that is irresistible.

There seems to be a fascination about attending meetings of the Sovereign Grand Lodge that is irresistible.

There seems to be a fascination about attending meetings of the Sovereign Grand Lodge that is irresistible.

There seems to be a fascination about attending meetings of the Sovereign Grand Lodge that is irresistible.

There seems to be a fascination about attending meetings of the Sovereign Grand Lodge that is irresistible.

There seems to be a fascination about attending meetings of the Sovereign Grand Lodge that is irresistible.

There seems to be a fascination about attending meetings of the Sovereign Grand Lodge that is irresistible.

There seems to be a fascination about attending meetings of the Sovereign Grand Lodge that is irresistible.

There seems to be a fascination about attending meetings of the Sovereign Grand Lodge that is irresistible.

There seems to be a fascination about attending meetings of the Sovereign Grand Lodge that is irresistible.

There seems to be a fascination about attending meetings of the Sovereign Grand Lodge that is irresistible.

There seems to be a fascination about attending meetings of the Sovereign Grand Lodge that is irresistible.

There seems to be a fascination about attending meetings of the Sovereign Grand Lodge that is irresistible.

There seems to be a fascination about attending meetings of the Sovereign Grand Lodge that is irresistible.

There seems to be a fascination about attending meetings of the Sovereign Grand Lodge that is irresistible.

There seems to be a fascination about attending meetings of the Sovereign Grand Lodge that is irresistible.

There seems to be a fascination about attending meetings of the Sovereign Grand Lodge that is irresistible.

There seems to be a fascination about attending meetings of the Sovereign Grand Lodge that is irresistible.

Grand Representative Robert E. Wright, of Allen, Pa., is said to be one of the wealthiest members of the Sovereign Grand Lodge.

There seems to be a fascination about attending meetings of the Sovereign Grand Lodge that is irresistible.

There seems to be a fascination about attending meetings of the Sovereign Grand Lodge that is irresistible.

There seems to be a fascination about attending meetings of the Sovereign Grand Lodge that is irresistible.

There seems to be a fascination about attending meetings of the Sovereign Grand Lodge that is irresistible.

There seems to be a fascination about attending meetings of the Sovereign Grand Lodge that is irresistible.

There seems to be a fascination about attending meetings of the Sovereign Grand Lodge that is irresistible.

There seems to be a fascination about attending meetings of the Sovereign Grand Lodge that is irresistible.

There seems to be a fascination about attending meetings of the Sovereign Grand Lodge that is irresistible.

There seems to be a fascination about attending meetings of the Sovereign Grand Lodge that is irresistible.

There seems to be a fascination about attending meetings of the Sovereign Grand Lodge that is irresistible.

There seems to be a fascination about attending meetings of the Sovereign Grand Lodge that is irresistible.

There seems to be a fascination about attending meetings of the Sovereign Grand Lodge that is irresistible.

There seems to be a fascination about attending meetings of the Sovereign Grand Lodge that is irresistible.

There seems to be a fascination about attending meetings of the Sovereign Grand Lodge that is irresistible.

There seems to be a fascination about attending meetings of the Sovereign Grand Lodge that is irresistible.

There seems to be a fascination about attending meetings of the Sovereign Grand Lodge that is irresistible.

There seems to be a fascination about attending meetings of the Sovereign Grand Lodge that is irresistible.

There seems to be a fascination about attending meetings of the Sovereign Grand Lodge that is irresistible.

There seems to be a fascination about attending meetings of the Sovereign Grand Lodge that is irresistible.

There seems to be a fascination about attending meetings of the Sovereign Grand Lodge that is irresistible.

There seems to be a fascination about attending meetings of the Sovereign Grand Lodge that is irresistible.

There seems to be a fascination about attending meetings of the Sovereign Grand Lodge that is irresistible.

There seems to be a fascination about attending meetings of the Sovereign Grand Lodge that is irresistible.

There seems to be a fascination about attending meetings of the Sovereign Grand Lodge that is irresistible.

There seems to be a fascination about attending meetings of the Sovereign Grand Lodge that is irresistible.

There seems to be a fascination about attending meetings of the Sovereign Grand Lodge that is irresistible.

There seems to be a fascination about attending meetings of the Sovereign Grand Lodge that is irresistible.

There seems to be a fascination about attending meetings of the Sovereign Grand Lodge that is irresistible.

There seems to be a fascination about attending meetings of the Sovereign Grand Lodge that is irresistible.

There seems to be a fascination about attending meetings of the Sovereign Grand Lodge that is irresistible.

There seems to be a fascination about attending meetings of the Sovereign Grand Lodge that is irresistible.

COMMENT ON ROOSEVELT

LONDON VIEWS OF THE NEW PRESIDENT AND HIS POLICY.

Warning Against Germany and a Hint to Great Britain to Carry Favor with the United States.

LONDON, Sept. 20.—Commenting on the accession of Mr. Roosevelt to the presidency, the Statist decries the idea that he is an imperialist in an aggressive sense, and it expresses the opinion that he will maintain the present excellent financial status of the United States.

Spectator, which appears in black borders for McKinley, devotes much space to comment on the sad event of his death and on the accession of Mr. Roosevelt.

With reference to the new President it says: "He will be a thoroughly American President. As proof of his statesmanlike moderation we note the retention in the Cabinet of Mr. Hay, one of the ablest and most sincere patriots, living American statesmen."

President Roosevelt will not try to quarrel with England, but he will show her no special favors. The chief danger before him is that, while insisting on the policy of "hands off," he may come into violent collision with Germany, and that this collision may come while America is not prepared to meet it.

We may be sure Germany will only respect the Monroe doctrine so long as she feels too weak at sea to challenge it.

Summing up President Roosevelt's foreign policy, the Spectator says: "It will be neither for nor against England, but merely for his own country. This should not bring about any diplomatic friction between England and America. Mr. Roosevelt's declarations regarding the Nicaragua canal in no way conflict with what is best for England."

After deprecating the idea of Great Britain urging that the Clayton-Bulwer treaty gives her any right of veto as compared with the importance of having the canal under the control of the United States, the Spectator concludes as follows: "The outbreak of English feeling for America in her sorrow over the death of President McKinley is a free hand on the isthmus and accepting of the regular route to the Pacific."

The London Daily Chronicle to-day finds the regular route to the Pacific. The Spectator says: "It will be neither for nor against England, but merely for his own country. This should not bring about any diplomatic friction between England and America. Mr. Roosevelt's declarations regarding the Nicaragua canal in no way conflict with what is best for England."

After deprecating the idea of Great Britain urging that the Clayton-Bulwer treaty gives her any right of veto as compared with the importance of having the canal under the control of the United States, the Spectator concludes as follows: "The outbreak of English feeling for America in her sorrow over the death of President McKinley is a free hand on the isthmus and accepting of the regular route to the Pacific."

The London Daily Chronicle to-day finds the regular route to the Pacific. The Spectator says: "It will be neither for nor against England, but merely for his own country. This should not bring about any diplomatic friction between England and America. Mr. Roosevelt's declarations regarding the Nicaragua canal in no way conflict with what is best for England."

After deprecating the idea of Great Britain urging that the Clayton-Bulwer treaty gives her any right of veto as compared with the importance of having the canal under the control of the United States, the Spectator concludes as follows: "The outbreak of English feeling for America in her sorrow over the death of President McKinley is a free hand on the isthmus and accepting of the regular route to the Pacific."

The London Daily Chronicle to-day finds the regular route to the Pacific. The Spectator says: "It will be neither for nor against England, but merely for his own country. This should not bring about any diplomatic friction between England and America. Mr. Roosevelt's declarations regarding the Nicaragua canal in no way conflict with what is best for England."

After deprecating the idea of Great Britain urging that the Clayton-Bulwer treaty gives her any right of veto as compared with the importance of having the canal under the control of the United States, the Spectator concludes as follows: "The outbreak of English feeling for America in her sorrow over the death of President McKinley is a free hand on the isthmus and accepting of the regular route to the Pacific."

The London Daily Chronicle to-day finds the regular route to the Pacific. The Spectator says: "It will be neither for nor against England, but merely for his own country. This should not bring about any diplomatic friction between England and America. Mr. Roosevelt's declarations regarding the Nicaragua canal in no way conflict with what is best for England."

After deprecating the idea of Great Britain urging that the Clayton-Bulwer treaty gives her any right of veto as compared with the importance of having the canal under the control of the United States, the Spectator concludes as follows: "The outbreak of English feeling for America in her sorrow over the death of President McKinley is a free hand on the isthmus and accepting of the regular route to the Pacific."

The London Daily Chronicle to-day finds the regular route to the Pacific. The Spectator says: "It will be neither for nor against England, but merely for his own country. This should not bring about any diplomatic friction between England and America. Mr. Roosevelt's declarations regarding the Nicaragua canal in no way conflict with what is best for England."

After deprecating the idea of Great Britain urging that the Clayton-Bulwer treaty gives her any right of veto as compared with the importance of having the canal under the control of the United States, the Spectator concludes as follows: "The outbreak of English feeling for America in her sorrow over the death of President McKinley is a free hand on the isthmus and accepting of the regular route to the Pacific."

The London Daily Chronicle to-day finds the regular route to the Pacific. The Spectator says: "It will be neither for nor against England, but merely for his own country. This should not bring about any diplomatic friction between England and America. Mr. Roosevelt's declarations regarding the Nicaragua canal in no way conflict with what is best for England."

After deprecating the idea of Great Britain urging that the Clayton-Bulwer treaty gives her any right of veto as compared with the importance of having the canal under the control of the United States, the Spectator concludes as follows: "The outbreak of English feeling for America in her sorrow over the death of President McKinley is a free hand on the isthmus and accepting of the regular route to the Pacific."

The London Daily Chronicle to-day finds the regular route to the Pacific. The Spectator says: "It will be neither for nor against England, but merely for his own country. This should not bring about any diplomatic friction between England and America. Mr. Roosevelt's declarations regarding the Nicaragua canal in no way conflict with what is best for England."

After deprecating the idea of Great Britain urging that the Clayton-Bulwer treaty gives her any right of veto as compared with the importance of having the canal under the control of the United States, the Spectator concludes as follows: "The outbreak of English feeling for America in her sorrow over the death of President McKinley is a free hand on the isthmus and accepting of the regular route to the Pacific."

The London Daily Chronicle to-day finds the regular route to the Pacific. The Spectator says: "It will be neither for nor against England, but merely for his own country. This should not bring about any diplomatic friction between England and America. Mr. Roosevelt's declarations regarding the Nicaragua canal in no way conflict with what is best for England."

After deprecating the idea of Great Britain urging that the Clayton-Bulwer treaty gives her any right of veto as compared with the importance of having the canal under the control of the United States, the Spectator concludes as follows: "The outbreak of English feeling for America in her sorrow over the death of President McKinley is a free hand on the isthmus and accepting of the regular route to the Pacific."

The London Daily Chronicle to-day finds the regular route to the Pacific. The Spectator says: "It will be neither for nor against England, but merely for his own country. This should not bring about any diplomatic friction between England and America. Mr. Roosevelt's declarations regarding the Nicaragua canal in no way conflict with what is best for England."

After deprecating the idea of Great Britain urging that the Clayton-Bulwer treaty gives her any right of veto as compared with the importance of having the canal under the control of the United States, the Spectator concludes as follows: "The outbreak of English feeling for America in her sorrow over the death of President McKinley is a free hand on the isthmus and accepting of the regular route to the Pacific."

The London Daily Chronicle to-day finds the regular route to the Pacific. The Spectator says: "It will be neither for nor against England, but merely for his own country. This should not bring about any diplomatic friction between England and America. Mr. Roosevelt's declarations regarding the Nicaragua canal in no way conflict with what is best for England."

After deprecating the idea of Great Britain urging that the Clayton-Bulwer treaty gives her any right of veto as compared with the importance of having the canal under the control of the United States, the Spectator concludes as follows: "The outbreak of English feeling for America in her sorrow over the death of President McKinley is a free hand on the isthmus and accepting of the regular route to the Pacific."

The London Daily Chronicle to-day finds the regular route to the Pacific. The Spectator says: "It will be neither for nor against England, but merely for his own country. This should not bring about any diplomatic friction between England and America. Mr. Roosevelt's declarations regarding the Nicaragua canal in no way conflict with what is best for England."

After deprecating the idea of Great Britain urging that the Clayton-Bulwer treaty gives her any right of veto as compared with the importance of having the canal under the control of the United States, the Spectator concludes as follows: "The outbreak of English feeling for America in her sorrow over the death of President McKinley is a free hand on the isthmus and accepting of the regular route to the Pacific."

The London Daily Chronicle to-day finds the regular route to the Pacific. The Spectator says: "It will be neither for nor against England, but merely for his own country. This should not bring about any diplomatic friction between England and America. Mr. Roosevelt's declarations regarding the Nicaragua canal in no way conflict with what is best for England."

causes that led up to this unsatisfactory settlement were the overwhelming odds against the association, the daily press, public opinion, the advice of prominent labor leaders and the withdrawal of credit by merchants.

WAS CRAZED WITH DRINK.

Private Lynch Shot Two Men and Killed One.

PORT MEAD, S. D., Sept. 20.—Private Charles Lynch, of Company M, while crazed with drink, entered the barracks today, drew his revolver and began firing indiscriminately at his comrades. One bullet struck Private Caldwell in the thigh and another Charles H. Amich in the stomach.

A guard shot Lynch in the leg and he was overpowered. Private Amich died to-night. Lynch had been at Sturgis on leave of absence and there secured the liquor.

TELEGRAPHIC BRIEVITIES.

Two inches of snow fell last night on Mount Washington, New Hampshire. The temperature was 25 degrees.

Katherine Kupper, a young artist whom the late George H. Ruggles had befriended, yesterday filed a claim of $15,000 against his estate for services as an artist for six years.

Sir Thomas Lipton recovered sufficiently from his injuries to be removed from the steamer Porto Rico, which was bound for Erin, where he will remain until the American cup races are over.

Two inches of snow fell last night on Mount Washington, New Hampshire. The temperature was 25 degrees.

Katherine Kupper, a young artist whom the late George H. Ruggles had befriended, yesterday filed a claim of $15,000 against his estate for services as an artist for six years.

Sir Thomas Lipton recovered sufficiently from his injuries to be removed from the steamer Porto Rico, which was bound for Erin, where he will remain until the American cup races are over.

Two inches of snow fell last night on Mount Washington, New Hampshire. The temperature was 25 degrees.

Katherine Kupper, a young artist whom the late George H. Ruggles had befriended, yesterday filed a claim of $15,000 against his estate for services as an artist for six years.

Sir Thomas Lipton recovered sufficiently from his injuries to be removed from the steamer Porto Rico, which was bound for Erin, where he will remain until the American cup races are over.

Two inches of snow fell last night on Mount Washington, New Hampshire. The temperature was 25 degrees.

Katherine Kupper, a young artist whom the late George H. Ruggles had befriended, yesterday filed a claim of $15,000 against his estate for services as an artist for six years.

Sir Thomas Lipton recovered sufficiently from his injuries to be removed from the steamer Porto Rico, which was bound for Erin, where he will remain until the American cup races are over.

Two inches of snow fell last night on Mount Washington, New Hampshire. The temperature was 25 degrees.

Katherine Kupper, a young artist whom the late George H. Ruggles had befriended, yesterday filed a claim of $15,000 against his estate for services as an artist for six years.

Sir Thomas Lipton recovered sufficiently from his injuries to be removed from the steamer Porto Rico, which was bound for Erin, where he will remain until the American cup races are over.

Two inches of snow fell last night on Mount Washington, New Hampshire. The temperature was 25 degrees.

Katherine Kupper, a young artist whom the late George H. Ruggles had befriended, yesterday filed a claim of $15,000 against his estate for services as an artist for six years.

Sir Thomas Lipton recovered sufficiently from his injuries to be removed from the steamer Porto Rico, which was bound for Erin, where he will remain until the American cup races are over.

Two inches of snow fell last night on Mount Washington, New Hampshire. The temperature was 25 degrees.

Katherine Kupper, a young artist whom the late George H. Ruggles had befriended, yesterday filed a claim of $15,000 against his estate for services as an artist for six years.

Sir Thomas Lipton recovered sufficiently from his injuries to be removed from the steamer Porto Rico, which was bound for Erin, where he will remain until the American cup races are over.

Two inches of snow fell last night on Mount Washington, New Hampshire. The temperature was 25 degrees.

Katherine Kupper, a young artist whom the late George H. Ruggles had befriended, yesterday filed a claim of $15,000 against his estate for services as an artist for six years.

Sir Thomas Lipton recovered sufficiently from his injuries to be removed from the steamer Porto Rico, which was bound for Erin, where he will remain until the American cup races are over.

Two inches of snow fell last night on Mount Washington, New Hampshire. The temperature was 25 degrees.

Katherine Kupper, a young artist whom the late George H. Ruggles had befriended, yesterday filed a claim of $15,000 against his estate for services as an artist for six years.

Sir Thomas Lipton recovered sufficiently from his injuries to be removed from the steamer Porto Rico, which was bound for Erin, where he will remain until the American cup races are over.

Two inches of snow fell last night on Mount Washington, New Hampshire. The temperature was 25 degrees.

BEATEN AND DROWNED

FATE OF A POLE WHO REJOICED OVER THE DEATH OF MCKINLEY.

And Who Also Is Alleged to Have Said "Teddy Will Be Next."

NORFOLK, Va., Sept. 20.—The captain of a small oyster sloop which arrived here today informed the Associated Press correspondent that shortly after President McKinley was shot a Pole appeared at Hivalve, Md., and secured a place as a stowaway on a steamer.

The Pole was fairly well dressed and educated. He told the oyster men that he came from a good family, but was cut off from them with a small allowance. The day after the President died a passenger on a passing steamer threw a newspaper aboard the sloop containing an account of the death. The Pole secured it while the crew was waiting for him to read them the story he exclaimed:

"Good, and Teddy will be next in a short time."

The crew set upon him and severely injured him, rendering him unconscious. The captain and mate intervened, but later when the man had gone ashore the crew checked the unconscious form up and threw it overboard.

A Suspicious Foreigner.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—The police are looking for a man who approached several pedestrians early to-day and asked the address of President Roosevelt's sister, Mrs. McKinley.

Several officers were detailed to guard the residence. The man is described as about forty years of age, with a foreign accent, has light mustache, wears dark clothes and carried a box about eight inches long and three and a half wide.

A Suspicious Foreigner.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—The police are looking for a man who approached several pedestrians early to-day and asked the address of President Roosevelt's sister, Mrs. McKinley.

Several officers were detailed to guard the residence. The man is described as about forty years of age, with a foreign accent, has light mustache, wears dark clothes and carried a box about eight inches long and three and a half wide.

A Suspicious Foreigner.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—The police are looking for a man who approached several pedestrians early to-day and asked the address of President Roosevelt's sister, Mrs. McKinley.

Several officers were detailed to guard the residence. The man is described as about forty years of age, with a foreign accent, has light mustache, wears dark clothes and carried a box about eight inches long and three and a half wide.

A Suspicious Foreigner.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—The police are looking for a man who approached several pedestrians early to-day and asked the address of President Roosevelt's sister, Mrs. McKinley.

Several officers were detailed to guard the residence. The man is described as about forty years of age, with a foreign accent, has light mustache, wears dark clothes and carried a box about eight inches long and three and a half wide.

A Suspicious Foreigner.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—The police are looking for a man who approached several pedestrians early to-day and asked the address of President Roosevelt's sister, Mrs. McKinley.

Several officers were detailed to guard the residence. The man is described as about forty years of age, with a foreign accent, has light mustache, wears dark clothes and carried a box about eight inches long and three and a half wide.

A Suspicious Foreigner.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—The police are looking for a man who approached several pedestrians early to-day and asked the address of President Roosevelt's sister, Mrs. McKinley.

Several officers were detailed to guard the residence. The man is described as about forty years of age, with a foreign accent, has light mustache, wears dark clothes and carried a box about eight inches long and three and a half wide.

A Suspicious Foreigner.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—The police are looking for a man who approached several pedestrians early to-day and asked the address of President Roosevelt's sister, Mrs. McKinley.

Several officers were detailed to guard the residence. The man is described as about forty years of age, with a foreign accent, has light mustache, wears dark clothes and carried a box about eight inches long and three and a half wide.

A Suspicious Foreigner.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—The police are looking for a man who approached several pedestrians early to-day and asked the address of President Roosevelt's sister, Mrs. McKinley.

Several officers were detailed to guard the residence. The man is described as about forty years of age, with a foreign accent, has light mustache, wears dark clothes and carried a box about eight inches long and three and a half wide.

A Suspicious Foreigner.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—The police are looking for a man who approached several pedestrians early to